THE STRANDED RHEIN

THE WVANOKE AND RICHMOND TO THE RESCUE

The German Captain Very Stubborn-Passengers Taken Off and Brought to Korfolk, &c.

espendence of the Richmond Dispatch.] NORFOLK, March 10, 1887. The Old Dominion steamship Wya-noke strived here this morning at 2:30 o'clock from the scene of the stranded German steamer Rhein at Hog island, bringing forty-six men, we children, taken from the stranded steam-In an interview with Captain John G. Hulphers, commanding the Wyanoke, he stated: Yesterday mornin at 10:30 o'clock while coming down the coast he sighted a large steam-ship ashore on Hog-island bar and bore down upon her. The dis-tressed vessel proved to be the Rhein, from Eremen to Baltimore. Went in as close as the safety of his ship would allow, and anchored in four and a half fathoms of water. Tried to com-municate with the captain of the Rhein, but my efforts were unavailing, and he did not respond. Found the Old Dominion steamship Richmond on the spot, and that she had been at work trying to haul the Rhein off and had parted several hawsers. The Richmond had been there since the forenoon of Tuesday, and had tried to get the passengers off when the water was smooth, but the captain of the stranded ship had refused to make the transfer, being under the impression that he would work off the bar. Heavy cables were then got ready on the Wyanoke, and every preparation made to assist in hauling the ship off, but there was no application or special interest manifested by the captain of the Rhein in the matter. and nothing was done. It was impossible for the Wyanoke to attempt to go alongside without imperilling the ship and the safety of those on board, as there were breakers all around. The captain of the Rhein would only com municate with the mate of the Rich mond, and through him I sent word that the Wyanoke could not stand by any longer unless he transferred the passengers. He then consented to transfer the passengers, and soon after loosened one life-boat and sent fourteen immigrants on board the Richmond, weather had begun to look bad, and as the wrecking-tug Slater had arrived and night was at band the Wyanoke left at 8 o'clock for Norfolk and the Richmond left later in the night. Captain Hulphers said he did think the ship was very hard aground, and after the Slater got her cables out and commenced work he could see that the Rhein had commenced to slew around has often expressed his appreciation of and roll when she worked her propel- what Russia has done for Bulgaria, but The wrecking-steamer Victoria

Peter Karaveloff, of whom we print a portrait, was born in 1840. He received his early education at Moscow, and took his degree in the University of Dorpat, becoming subsequently teacher at the Gymnasium of Philip-popolis. At the outbreak of the Russo-Turkish war Karaveloff was appointed Vice-Governor of Widdin, and in 1879 he was elected deputy. He is considered the author of the Constitution adopted at Tirnova. NINA SEEN HER AUGUST.

The Sheriff Gives In-Affectionate

A Chicago special says: Nina Van Zandt, or "Mrs. August Spies," as she insists on being called, scored a victory this morning over the law officers whom nounced. After a hard fight she succeeded in securing an interview with her August in the jail. About 9 o'clock Nina walked into the jail building with a sprightly step and confident air. She presented an order from the sheriff and was allowed to pass. It was the hour when the prisoners are let out of their cells. Spies was walking in the corridor when his name was called. When he saw who it was he hastened his steps. Nina had taken a position in a corner of the cage next to the wall with her face close to the wire grating. "August," she said in a soft, low

A Scabright (N. J.) telegram says: Rev. A. M. Lake preached his farewell sermon in the Methodist church on Sunday. At the end of the service he stated that members of the society who infringed the church discipline must be punished, and then proceeded to read out of the church Abram H. West and Theodore Buckalew, for signing the petition of the Hotel Shrewsbury for the granting of a license to sell liquor; John Enrickson, for drunkenness, and Mrs. Ida Ferry and Mrs. George A. Phillips for dancing. The two ladies were brides only three months' ago, and the alleged sin against the church discipline was committed before they were married. It was rumored that General Clinton B. Fisk, late Prohibition candidate for Governor, was also to be expelled for owning stock in the Seabright Inn, which has a bar where liquors are sold. This was not done, however. General Fisk is a mining millionaire, and gives from $300 to $500 church several years ago, and has been one of its staunchest members. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] PETERSBUEG, VA., March 10, 1887. William Alfred Langston, said to be a citizen of Richmond, was before the Mayor's Court this morning charged as one of the principals in the recent high-way assault and robbery of Mr. J. T. Hughes, the mail-carrier. Judge R. H. Jones & Son appeared as counsel for the accused. The main facts in this case have already been given in this correspondence. While the robbery was very bunglingly executed, yet it was of a character to rather startle the comof a character to rather startle the com munity. The fact that a man should be knocked down and robbed in the street near the heart of the city was not relished. Mr. Hughes in his testi-mony fully identified Langston as one of the parties who were walking around with him the night of the affair. Which of the parties threw the cloak over his head, which of them struck him or threw him down or robbed his person, he could not say. When the assault was committed he was walking just in advance of the parties. His identification of Langston as one the parties who were with him was positive. Other witnesses were was positive. Other witnesses were introduced, and their testimony went to corroborate Mr. Hughes's statement that four persons were with him in the walk they took. Mr. Mc-Culloch, the guard at the Petersburg Iron-Works, said he saw four men throw a cloak over the head of a fifth man and throw him to the ground. He could not get to the spot in time to see who they were. It was also in testimony that one of the parties under arrest purchased a quantity of laudanum at a drugstore on Old street, but as Langston was not the one who bought it, this was not considered in his case. Langston was sent on to be tried at the April term of the Hustings Court and com-mitted to jail without bail. The other hree cases will be heard to-morrow. Hon. John S. Wise and several northern friends were in the city to-day. GREENSVILLE-COUNTY MATTERS. In my last letter mention was made of the trial of J. H. Moody, a white man, in the County Court of Greens ville, on an indictment charging him with housebreaking. The jury found him guilty and fixed his sentence at two years in the penitentiary. A sad feature about the case is that Moody is a gray-headed old man. But for his iced age it is thought the jury would have given him a heavier sen-

A San Francisco special says; An expert forger, who had planned an extensive campaign on this coast, was arrested a few days ago by detectives and was turned over yesterday to Detective Pratt, of Abington, Mass., who had extradition papers for William D. Reed, charged with forging endorsements to $1,000 checks. It seems that he forged the name of E. P. Reed to a check for $1,000 purporting to have been drawn on the National Eank of New York. He on the National Eank of New York, He presented the check at the Brockton Mass.) National Bank and was told that he must get the cashier's check from the New York bank. He returned in a few days with the required cheek and was paid the amount. A few days later it was found to be a forgery. Reed came here by way of Panama, under the name of Arthur L. Franklin. He gave two checks to the Pacific Bank for col-lection; one for $10,000 was drawn on the Union Trust Company, of New York. He also deposited with Crocker, Woolworth & Co., ten certificates of deposit of $500 each purporting to be signed by Cashier Doremus, of the Chatham National Bank, showing that the bearer, A. L. Franklin, had de-posited that amount in the bank. He also presented a sight draft on the Chatham Bank for $2,000 for collec-

To back his credit he produced a strong letter of recommendation from C. Burnham, of the Baldwin Locomotive-Works, Philadelphia, who said that Franklin was his nephew and had $10,000 to his credit in the Union Trust Company. Another forged letter from Cashier Lee, of the Second National Bank of Philadelphia, gave him, an introduction to Cashier Brown, of the Bank of Cahfornia. The detectives dis-Jailer Folz says he will allow Market visit Spies twice a week. Nina succeeded in having Sheriff Matson's order keeping her out of the jail revoked by extreme persistence. The Sheriff had hardly a chance for weeks to get a good night's rest on account of the importunities of the young woman and her female friends, and when he could have female friends, and when he could have female friends, and when he gave the State. He is only thirty-five.
